An Empathy map has been created for Retail store stock inventory analysis and the process has been completed

Problem statement :

X is a retailer who wants easy to understand data on inventory management so that he can meet customer demand without running out of stock or carrying excess supply